FAIRY STORIES.

I told her fairy stories In the old days long ago, As we used to sit at evening

In the firelight's lambient glow. She was a tiny maiden Yet she loved me then, I know, When I told her fairy stories In the old days long ago.

I told her fairy stories When we had older grown; Those tales of love and courage That lovers long have known;
When we used to watch the shadows
Like a tide's incoming flow,
And she whispered that she loved me In the old days long ago.

I tell her fairy stories Almost every evening now; But they've lost their old time glamour And we've changed about somehow, Yet she loves me still, although She don't believe the stories As in the old days long ago.

BY DUDLEY VAN ZANDT.

"Who was the man that left your apartments just now, as I entered, and what did he want here?"

Amanda Malthay, the "star" tragedienne, looked at her questioner and smiled; then, giving a little shrug, she replied, coldly:

You are inquisitive, Sir Horace—not to say im-The young nobleman winced, and an angry flush mantled his handsome face.

"It seems to me that I have the right to ask this question." he said, then, impatiently. "When a woman accepts costly presents from a man he has some claim on her, and naturally likes to know if he has a rival."

The actress rose quickly from her reclining chair and stopped him with a haughty gesture.
"Your costly presents, Sir Horace Wendelin, you shall have back at once!" she said, her voice vibrating with indignation.

With that she went toward her boudoir, but she had taken but a few steps when the young man sprang forward and seized her arm. "Forgive me!" he begged. "I spoke hastily.
You bewitch me, torment me, make me jealous!

"And yet?" she repeated, turning sharply, and flxing her cold, dark eyes upon him. "Finish, Sir

'And yet you treat me so indifferently at times

as if I were nothing to you."
She laughed harshly, and resumed her seat.

The young man bit his lips and scowled. "For a person who is madly in love, Sir Horace," she said, provokingly, "you have a strange way of looking and acting. With the trifling presents which you have bestowed upon me from time to time you have doubtless thrown in many ardent protestations of love, of adoration, and so forth; but, as yet, not one word of marriage have you breathed. Or isn't your mad love of the sort that leads to wedlock?" she added, giving her adorer a piercing look, while the corners of her mouth curled scornfully.

Sir Horace stood before her with a disconcerted

'Oh, you don't answer that!" sneered the actress, playing with her fan. "What kind of a person do you take me to be, pray!"
"An enchantress, a heartless coquette!" said the young nobleman, savagely. "You have drawn me into your net, merely to trifle with my feelings, to empty my pockets, then to cast me off like old clothes and laugh at me."

'Like the one you saw go out as you came in,' interposed the actress, mockingly. "But he at least had the manliness to ask me to be his wife. I threw him over because—well, because I didn't wish to marry him, and—to be perfectly frank with you-because I really love another."

Sir Horace gaped at his tormentor, turning alternately white and red.

"You-you love another?" he stammered finally, sinking into an arm chair and covering his face with his hands, which trembled visibly, as if he were greatly agitated.

"Does that move you so much?" queried the actress, speaking all at once in a tone which

The nobleman raised his head and eyed her

Would you like to know who this other one is?" she continued, flashing her dark eyes at him.

"My God!" exclaimed Sir Horace, springing to s feet and walking excitedly up and down the room, "why do you delight in torturing me so?"

"It is you who torture yourself," she replied quietly. "I repeat, I love another; and furthermore, if he were not so blind he could see it easily

Saying which she rose, stepped up to the young nan, and, placing a hand gently on his shoulder, added with some emotion: "Sir Horace Wendelin, you are that man!"

With a cry of joy he made a movement to clasp her in his arms; but she pushed him forcibly back. "No, no—not yet," she said, bitterly—"not till

He stared at her a moment, as if confounded, he blood rushing hot to his head; then, muttering a curse, he grasped her soft hands rudely, and squeezed them with all his might, till she cried out sionately, unmindful of her cries. "Our stations in life are two far apart for that—but ——"

With a desperate effort she freed herself from his grasp, glanced at the red marks which his fingers had left on her delicate white hands; then, drawing herself proudly erect, her eyes glaring, she pointed commandingly to the door and said:

"Dearly shall you pay for this outrage, Sir Hor

The color forsook the young man's face, as he shrank before her, and the next moment she had brushed out of the room, leaving him alone.

It was the day of the officers' steeplechase. The leading to West End was unusually animated. The footpath was crowded with well dressed peo ple, and the roadway filled with vehicles of al kinds.

Many were the admiring glances cast at the ele gant four in hands, as well as the rocking mail coaches, which mostly wore the colors of their owners' regiment, and on which swarmed uniforms pale and lifeless, but the dark eyes glittered under the black cloud of hair, which almost enveloped the brow, and the broad, curling lips glowed as red

The ladies on the mail coach craned their necks, and said to each other in low tones:

"How dismal she looks again!" whispered Lady Lona to a iriend. "I saw her last week as Medea, and, really, when she rushed on the stage with the bloody dagger in her hand. I had all I could do to keep from crying out with horror! Dear me, how she played! The audience went wild over her!" Lady Lona stuck her saucy little nose in the air, and "scented" over toward Sir Horace.

He stooped and kissed her hand; as he did so thing black swept past them, like a large, dark

It was the Malthay.

Sir Horace shuddered in spite of himself and his face clouded. "You must steady your nerves, if you would win the stake!" said the countess, shaking her finger at him playfully.

For all answer he pressed her hand warmly, hurried with her to overtake his party, and was soon striding toward the stables, where the gentlemen who were to ride were already assembled struck her front hoofs against the boards, and fell over backwards, burying her rider under the weight of her body.

A groom brought him his horse. He had the blanket removed, and examined the saddling.

The next instant North Star took the barrier as gracefully as a deer, and the dark horses come rush ing up behind.

From the grand stand sounded frightened cries; on the other side of the bars the crowd surged and ressed forward. Comrades surrounded the thrown rider and quickly pulled off the kicking horse, while a physician elbowed his way through the shocked throng. Sir Horace Wendelin lay upon his back, with crushed ribs, scarcely breathing, the blood trick-ling from the corners of his mouth down upon the green turf.

A flower girl, overcome with terror, let her basket of roses fall to the ground; her stereotyped smile had changed into a distortion. The officers stood in a circle around the dying man; the music broke off shrilly.

The stands were emptied. Lady Lona was carried away unconscious Amanda Malthay, the "star" tragedienne, took the arm of a well known sportsman.

"Lead me to my carriage, my lord," she said with white lips. "I dare not make myself nervous, for I must play this evening."

GEORGE LE ROY HOLLAND.

Commonly known as George Holland, is the eldest son of the late George Holland, comedian, and brother to E. M. and Joseph Holland. He was born in this city, July 6, 1846, and educated partly here and partly in New Orleans, La., where for a num-ber of years the senior Holland was a great favorite. His first professional engagement was with Laura Keene, at the Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, Pa., in 1869. Since then Mr. Holland has acted with almost every notable star, and in all of the principal cities of America, as well as in London, Eng., his engagement there with the late E. A. Sothern lasting for sixteen weeks, at the Haymarket Theatre. In 1887 Mr. Holland settled in Philadelphia, acting for a few weeks each year with the late Mrs. John Drew, at the Arch Street Theatre. In 1891 he became lessee and manager of the Girard Avenue Theatre, and for five years his management was noted for the wonderful success achieved. This season Mr. Holland determined to return to acting, and he was at once engaged by Charles Frohman and David Belasco for the principal parts in "A Night's Session" and "The First Born," in which characters he has again achieved distinction as an actor. Mr. Holland is an actor of wide experience. great technical knowledge and much polish, and his skill as a stage manager won bim much renown while engaged in managerial work in Philadelphia.

"There, Sir Horace," said a soft voice in the laughter which prevailed on the top seats, "let that be your talisman today!" Sir Horace Wendelin accepted the token with with more serious intentions.

At first he had approached the captivating coun es only out of a spirit of revenge against Amanda ta th the actress, who had spurned his advances. By exciting the jealousy of the latter whom he believed really loved him after a fashion he had hoped to bend her ultimately to his will.

But now, after firting with the gay countess for eight weeks, he had perceived that he had learned love this sweet, coquettish creature with a true, worshipping love.

Irene nodded her head rather indifferently.

Meanwhile the Malthay's carriage kept in line dained to throw a glance either to the right or left. Sir Horace quivered convulsively in every limb with irritation, his bronzed face coloring dark red. "Drive on, Downing!" he called to his com-anion holding the reins.

The whip lash danced over the backs of the horses, who quickened their pace, but at the same moment the carriage of the Malthay rolled on fas-

- Manager Peter Rice, of Gilmore & Leonard's "Hogan's Alley" No. 2, writes: "I was surprised to read in The Old Reliable, a few weeks ago, a statement that a 'Hogan's Alley' Company disbanded at Richmond, Va., and some of its members were arrested for drunkenness at Washington, D. C. I was not aware that there were any pirates out with it this year. I wish you would contradict it, as it throws reflection upon the only two companies on the road of 'Hogan's Alley,' Glimore & Leonard, proprietors. Both companies are doing well, with no immediate danger of going to pieces. The Eastern company is now in the East, the Southern company doing big in the West. We go back into Texas and the South after our Kansas City date, which territory we were forced to leave on account of yellow fever. Now it is all over, managers insist upon us giving them a date for one we were compelled to cancel. Our printing is all there since October, and managers will not release it until we give them a date, which we will do, as all managers in the East and Canada have given us a release until Spring, at which time we will give them a date. 'Hogan's Alley' is certainly doing the largest business every where this season. We played S'. Joe, Mo., Thanksgiving Day, at the Crawford Theatre, to the largest business ever done in the house. The manager of Tootle's Theatre gave us a big guarantee to return to his house Dec. 10, two weeks intervening, which we will do."

— Ray Eidridge, with De Voss Howard Co., had a tumor removed from her cheek, and is doing well.

— Notes from Rentfrow's Pathfinders: We have played, at Steubenville, our last Ohio stand for the season. Business has been generally good. Nothing of special note has occurred, except that at Canal Dover we broke in the town to repertory. It was largely an experiment. Neither the local management nor we were ready to prophesy the result. The people of the town had never had an opportunity to pay less than 35 cents for a gallery sest, and when the best in the house was announced at 30 cents there were many wondering inquiries among the resident's of the staid old German community. For the first three nights it appeared as if they didn't want a chance to sit in the parquet, or any other place, at repertory prices. Our music caught them first, and Director Abel, whose ancestors came from Fatherland, knew exactly what to give. By the close of the week we had the town in high good humor. Everybody with the show is working hard. Grace Leith and Grace Rentfrow have the mirror dance down fine, and the act goes with a storm of applause. Harry King and Burt Hodgkins have worked up a double turn, Irish and Dutch, and it's neat. Each has also added several new single specialties to their already good lines. Mr. Hodgkins is constantly pleasing the people and surprising his associates by the introduction of new gags so neatly turned that they always go. Our quartet (male) will soon be ready for work, reviving some of the old songs that are new to most of the present generation of showgoers. We have "specialties to burn," and the local manager whom we cannot satisfy is too exacting for long life. A recent addition to our repertory is "The Judge." a comedy drama, originally intended for matinees, but so good we have put it on the night bills. It was first produced three weeks ago. We now have three comedy dramas and five farce comedies ready for production, at a leading theatre, of a play he has written. The piece, which is a four act society play of modern life, with the scenes laid at Newport, was begun by General Forsythe,

—B. M. Gartield, of Jamestown, N. Y., who was business manager of the Pelham's Co. last season. received judgment for $200.63 against Claud D. Pelham, in Supreme Court, for money loaned. The company was tied up at Utica, N. Y., Dec. 11, the sherif levying on all property. After quite a spirited interview Mr. Pelham settled, and on orders of Mr. Garfield the stuff was released and the company allowed to go on.

— The Ideal Theatre Co., under the management of Haworth and Gleason, is touring Indians. The company consists of Lew Gleason, Ed. Haworth, Cliff C. Storch, Jack Kenyor, Carl Westenjere, Milt Wareing, Jack Leder, Frank Sylvester, Minnie Tressell-Gleason, Ursa Sylvester and Pauline Kirk.

—An incident not on the programme occurred just before the curtain rose for the second act of "In Old Madrid" at Ming's Opera House, Helena, when the "Francis Jones" Co. visited that city recently. E. D. Shaw, manager of the company, is a prominent member of the "Nobles of the Mystic Shrine," and while in Helena was an invited guest of the local body on their visit to Butte. In return for courtesies shown him Mr. Shaw invited the officers and their ladies to visit his attraction on its appearance in Helena. The invitation was accepted and made the occasion of a gais night, and a pleasing surprise to Miss Della Watson, the musical director of the company (who is the daughter of a prominent lowa "Shriner"), who was called before the curtain and presented with a handsome souvenir charm and a large box of American roses, with a card explaining the reason of the pretty remembrance. Later during heir stay the ladies and gentlemen of the company were shown many courtesies by the Helena "Nobles."

their stay the ladies and gentlemen of the company were shown many courtesies by the Helens "Nobles."

— Lee J. Kellam writes: "I am now in my seventh week with the Eden Stock Co. at St. Joseph, Mo., producing dramas and comedies. The plays are staged in good shape and new scenery is painted every week by the house artist. I will produce for Christmas week the sensational drama, in four acts, "Little Miss Thompson," written by Joseph H. Slater, with special scenery and mechanical effects. Manager Martin has struck the right means of pleasing the public, as is shown by the full houses we are having nightly. The stock company has made a go and has many friends here. Last Tues day we were tendered a banquet by the Owi Club and had a pleasant time until a late hour. The Roster of stock company: Lee J. Kellam, Gus Neville, Harry Woodcock, James McFarlin, James Casto, William Cade, Francis Skelly, May Hurst, Ina Pomeroy and Grace Jackson."

— Lew Gleason and Minnie Tressell, both members of the Ideal Theatre Co., were married on the stage at Covington, Ind., Dec. 9.

RHODE ISLAND

Providence.—At the Providence Opera House, & Dec. 6-11, Fanny Davenport, in "The Saint and the Fool," had good business. For the present week there will be two attractions, the first haif of the week "The Sunshine of Paradise Alley," and the last haif "What Happened to Jones." The latter has never been seen here, but its popularity has preceded it, and, as the company contains several people who are well known here, business is likely to be good. Margaret Mather is due 20-25.

Kenth's Opena House.—Elmer E. Vance's "Patent Applied For," 6-11, had very good business. This week W. H. Power, in "Shannon of the Sixth." This is a twy play here but the start is well known here and will an doubt do well. On Christmas week Chas. E. Slaney's "A Hired Girl" is to be seen here for the first time also. The holiday season, of course, has some effect upon the business, but not so much so at this house as at some of the others. OLYMPIC THEATER.—Harry W. "Superba," and on Jan. 3 will be given the first Boston production of John Philip Sousa's "T e Bride Elect."

Termont Theatre.—E. S. Willard's engagement here of five weeks has thus far proven a success of the most unmistakable kind. Crowded houses have ruled right along and money has steadily flowed into the treasury. Week of 13, however, ends his date, a matter that will be regretted by many. His repertory, as arranged for the week, includes "T e Rogue's Comedy" on Monday, "The Middleman" on Tuesday evening and Wednesday afternoon, and on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon "The Professor's Love Story." On Saturday evening he will present three plays, viz.: the comedy entitled "Delicate Ground," "A Last Confession," and the comedy. "Her aunt's Advice." Monday, 20, Francis Wilson opens a two weeks' date, in "Half a King."

Boston Muskum — "The Circus Girl" still holds sway at the Museum, and that she is there for a long run is evidenced by the fact that several members of the company have settled down here and are now keeping house. It can presented here in a long time, and the splendid success it has won here is well deserved.

Hollis Streker Theatree.—The London Gaiety Theatre Co. certainly cannot find cause of complaint for any apparent, lack of appreciation on the part of Boston theatregoers. Crowdesh houses have prevailed since "in Town" was first presented, and such undoubtedly would be the case were the play to run for a month to come. But evening of 13 begins its last week but one, the final performance being given week of 30.

"THE HORRIBLE MURDER," a four act tragedy, founded on the Guidensuppe crime, was in Yiddish acted at the Thaila Theatre Dec. 10.

THE AMERICAN THEATRE will open on Christmas Day, with the Castle Square Opera Company, in "The Queen's Lace Handkerchief." A ladies' reception room is to be opened on the first mor, and the present cafe is to give place to a gentlemen's smoking room, fitted up with lounging divans. Through the foyer will be scattered leather chairs and sofas, and the present benches in the gailery will be replaced with opers seats.

"CINDERELLA," with three thousand voices, which was intended for production at the Metropolitan Opera House during the week beginning Dec. 27, in aid of the Seton Hospital for consumptives, St. John's Day Nursery and St. Ann's Maternity Hospital, has been deferred for production until Jan. 8 because it has been discovered that the parts cannot be cast in time for the original date.

JULIA MARLOWS will appear at the Knickerbocker Theatre, beginning Jan. 3, for an extended engagement. Miss Marlowe will devote her first week to revivals of her former successes, and will then produce a new play.

THE SCALE OF PRICES at the Star Theatre will range from 15 cents to $1 in future.

TER METROPOLITAN OPERA HOUSE CONCERT, Sunday, Dec. 12, was largely attended. Lillian Blauvett and the Misses Sutro gave vocal numbers.

BROADWAY THEATRE .- On Dec. 13 the New Broadway Theatre,—On Dec. 15 the New Broadway Theatre Opera Company, of which Andrew A. McCormick is manager, presented, for the first time in this city, "The Highwayman," a comic opera, in three acts, music by Reginald De Koven and libretto by Harry B. Smith. This work was originally produced on Oct. 21 of the current year the Hayer Comp. and at the Hyperion Theatre, New Haven, Conn., and is story has already appeared in our columns. It made a favorable impression here upon a representative in factor in the property demonstrative, lacked fervor, and there was wanting the true ring of genuine appreciation. Mr. De Koven has endowed the work with some very pleasing numbers, but his work is neveriheless disappointing. The short overture was full of promise, some of its themes suggesting that the composer was about to avail himself of the opportunities presented by the libretist choice of period and location to give us again some of the choice melodic numbers which adorned the score of "Robin Hood," but the promise of the dawn of his work was not raillided, and with few exceptions his vocal numbers which adorned the score of "Robin Hood," but the promise of the dawn of his work was not raillided, and with few exceptions his vocal numbers which adorned the score of "Robin Hood," but the promise of the dawn of his work was appropriate to the production of the truncation of the score of the control of the control of the score of the control of the control of the score of the control of the score of the control of the control of the score of the control of the control of the score of the control of the control of the score of the score of the control of the score of the GARDEN THEATRE _"Faust " presented and sund formerly traveling under the title of the Boston Lyric Company, was witnessed by a medium sized audience here on Monday evening, Dec. 13. The singers comprising the cast were almost unknown to metropolitan operagoers, and except in the case of Frank Celli, formerly a prominent member of the Carl Rosa English Opera Company, the leading members failed to greatly impress the listeners with the excellence of their musical or dramatic abilities. Mr. Celli gave a very commendable characterization of Mephistofele, looking the part, singing and acting well, and easily carried off the honors of the performance. Edward Wareham, owing to indisposition, was unable to appear in the title role, which necessitated the substitution—of W. Warren Shaw, whose possible lack of preparation militated against his success. He possesses a good tenor voice, of which he hade good use, but he appeared to be it at easier, and his stage presence was by no means imposing while he was lacking in the ardor looked for in the lover of the heroine, and she made a very winsome and lovable Margherita. Fatmah blard assumed the role of the heroine, and she made a very winsome and lovable Margherita, singing sweetly and handling a voice of little compass pleasingly; but she failed to quite fill the demands of the part, inasmuch as her impersonation was marred by listlessness in both action and singing. Warwick Ganor made a favorable impression as Valentho, being of commanding presence and fine in English by the Madison Square Opera Company, by listlessness in both action and singing. Warwick Ganor made a favorable impression as Valentino, being of commanding presence and fine appearance, and possessed of a sweet tenor voice of excellent range, but he appeared to suffer somewhat from nervousness. Pretty Maud Berry dressed and sang the role of Siebel in a manner to gain the favor of the audience, and Rose Leighton, as Marta, was very effective in the comedy scene with Medistofele. The chorus, numbering about fifty, presented fresh and well trained voices, while the costuming was attractive, and their efforts quite satisfactory. The opera was well staged, and the performance, taken as a whole, was commendable. The cast: Fanst, W. Warren Shaw: Medistofele, Frank Celli: Valentino, Warwick Ganor; Wagner, John Rand; Margherita, Fatmah Diard; Siebel, Maud Berry; Marta, Rose Leighton.

KOSTER & BIAL'S .- The bill presented Dec. 13, for week, was sufficiently strong to draw an audience that about filled this spacious house. The an-nounced feature of the programme was Mile. Lave ria Charmion, aerialist, who on that occasion made ris charmion, serialist, who on that occasion made her New York debut. She is a young woman of pleasing appearance, and before she had finished her part of the performance proved herself to be a clever performer. The introduction to her act, however, culminated in the most disgustingly suggestive exhibition seen on the local stage for some time, and is unworthy of further mention. Anna Held began her sixteenth week, and was still the feature of the bill. She rendered a new song in French, which was well received, but her coonsong, with the introduction of the animated music sheet, was still the most popular of her offerings. Madge Ellis began her second week, and it was noticeable that she omitted to sing the songs which won for her severe censure on her opening might. Robbins, trick bleyclist, came in for favor. Juan A. Calcedo, wire performer; Albert A. Guille, renor singer; Daisy Mayer, Legro impersonator; Mile, Rombello, novelty sand modeler, and the De Cock Tronpe of acrobats, all held over in favor. The usual Sunday concert was given 12.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—John Drew is now in the sixth week of his engagement, and his new play. "A Marriage of Convenience," seems to be more footing than any he has previously presented. He is playing to crowded houses at each performance. HERALD SQUAKE THEATRE.—The Prench Maid's began on Dec. 13 the twelfth week of its run. It is a very popular attraction, and is still playing to excellent business. her New York debut. She is a young woman of TONY PASTOR'S THEATRE.—Here a bumper bill has possession Dec. 13-18, and a packed house made the weikin ring on Monday afternoon and night, the continuous bill offering no pauses in the good work of presenting splendid amusement. No bigger hit could have been made than that scored by the Four Cohans, and it would be quite impossible to say whether George's rattling comedy or Josie's sweet singing and graceful dancing created Josie's sweet singing and graceful dancing created the greatest furor. At all events the act made a hit. Comedy has the call in the bill, and the Sidmans leave no breach to be filled while they have the stage. Patrons of this house have come to know Mr. Sidman as one of their ideal comedians, and his wife backs him agreeably in the introduction of his quaint characterization. Another strong hit fell to the Biondells, who also offer giltedged character comedy, with irresistably funny interludes. Mr. Blondell has so securely set himself in favor by his work that known comedy results invariably follow their announcement card, and Mrs. Blondell furnishes personal attractiveness which is hard to beat. Sadie Cushman and Herbert Holcombe are to the fore with a new act, which presents their talents in agreeable setting. The Klondike provides the foundation, and Miss Cushman wears costumes which are positively stunning in their Arctic splendor. The excellent vocalisms of the pair serve to carry them to their accustomed hit, and they scored particularly heavy. Jig steps, of which no one else can boast, were tapped out by Sam and Kittle Morton, and so great was their vogue that they had to admit their success by responding to repeated encores. Margaret Webb made a good impression through the rendition of several songs; Bob and Kittle Emmett returned to scenes of former success and scored again, and the Seven Reed Birds, a most talented stage family, also won the applants their works so well deserves. Tony Pastor had a new number in his list of ditties, and sang the favorite parodies with a vigor which caused the audience to wax enthusiastic, as usual. To round out the entertalment, effective specialties were inroduced by Castellat and Hall, the Fransioli Sisters, M. J. Fenton, and Dave Barrett and Jennie Learned. The Christmas bill gives promise of further great amusement, as it will include Al. Filson and Lee Errol, the Nichols Sisters, Leola Mitchell, Imagene Comer and others.

WALLACK'S THEATER.—"A Ward of France," a p

play, in four acts and a prologue, received its first metropolitan rendering on Dec. 13, in the presence of an audience whose show of appreciation of the work was no doubt genuine, and whose applause was discriminately bestowed, a most unusual happening on an opening night. The play was originally produced on Oct. 14, at the Lyceum Theatre, Scranton, Pa.; and its story has been given in these columns. Its authors are Franklin Fyles and Eugene W. Prestrey, and they have succeeded in turning out an exceedingly worthy melodrams, founded upon an incident in United States history that is interesting to a marked degree, the acquisition of Louisiana by this country. The incidents of the play are not as lucidly presented as the reputations of its authors would lead one to expect, but a thorough understanding of action and climaxes is displayed throughout, and the lines are strongly written, and evidently in the best vein of these writers. It savors very strongly of lurid melodrama throughout, but the interest is well sustained, despite the fact that villainous machinations, such as are here disclosed, have served as the themes of many plays that have gone before. The acting was capital, and in a case such as this, where all concerned gave so worthy and conscientions a portrayal of the roles assigned them, it is difficult to select any to whom special mention is due. Elita Proctor Otls acted Zabet, a fortune teller, with much fervor and effectiveness; Maurice Barrymore made a dashing pirate capitain. George Osborne and Henry Herman handied the characters of elderly men in masterly style. Stephen Grattan looked extremely handsome and manly, and acted well as an ardent lover, and Max Figman played a comedy part with delicacy and cleverness. A pretty picture was Una Abell, and she acted with much feeling, while Mabel Burt won credit as a nun in the prologue. The cast: Marquis de Casa Calvo, Joseph E. Whiting; Jean Lafitte, Maurice Barrymore; George Villars, George Osbourne; Feltx Lussat, Henry Herman, Yictor Lussat, Stephen Grattan; Dewey Belford, Max Figman; Father Angelo, Stephen Wright; Delchaiso. T. T. Whitting; Colonel Preston, Frank Cornell; Seth Barnem, Mr. Wi of the work was no doubt genuine, and whose applause was discriminately bestowed, a most

Proctor's Theatre.—Good business rules at this cozy house, and the excellent bills presented warrant such a result. "The Cat and the Cherub," Chester Bailey Fernald's one act Chinese play, is the leading feature of the current programme, and, opening Dec. 13, was received with marks of ap-big turnout welcoming the Bowery boy on Monday, Dec. 13. Chas. E. Grapewin has a clever conception of the chief role, and plays it with much credit to himself, the remainder of the company also comparing favorably with others seen heretofore. In the same work. The cast: Chimmie Fadden. Chas. E. Grapewin; Paul, "Small Bottles," Frank Finch Smiles; Burton, Edward Mackay; Moxle, John R. Furlong; Larry, George A. Wright; Kramer, Richard J. Moye; Kelly, Al. Trahern; Police Detective, Robert Smithson; Mr. Van Courtland, Harry Rich; Perkins, R. J. Moye; Policeman, Henry Lisch; the Duchess. Francis Brooke; Fanny, Maud Allan; Maggie, Grace Gibbons; Mrs. Fadden. Florence Stover; Mrs. Murphy, May Donohue. his agreeable Sunday concert experience, will offer a specialty company especially selected to fill the vacant time.

MINRE'S EIGHTH AVENUE THEATRE.—Louis Robie's Knickeroockers put in their first appearance west of Broadway on Monday, Dec. 13, and created a favorable impression. Westsiders found particular delight in the exceedingly clever work contributed by Edna Aug, Chas. H. Burke and John D. Wills, in the first part, and greatly admired Miss Aug's much improved specialty and M. S. Whallen's witty contribution to the oito, all features worthy of especial commendation. The show has been fully reviewed heretofore. Next week, Flynn & Sheridan's Big Sensation.

Nucksy's Sunday Concerns continue to be town talk when the question of business and attractive programmes are under discussion. Surely the most exacting could find no fault with the bill Dec. 12, which introduced Auguste Van Biene, Elvis Crox, Camille D'Arville, Mrs. Geo. S. Knight, Fräncesca Redding and Harold Hartsell, Smith and Campbell, Meyer Cohen, Wm. H. Marcart, and West, Johnson and West. The house was jammed from pit to dome.

FURTERNIE STREET THEATRE.—Andrew Mack's third week began on Monday, Dec. 13, just as auspiciously as did his first—standing room only.

J. PHELAN CUDDY, a newspaper writer, is now intered on Dec. 13 upon the fourth week of its run. It is a strong nielodrams, magnificently staged, and that it is well cast is evidenced by the fact that Rose Coghish, Frank Carlyle, Olive May and Amelia' Bingham are among its interpreters.

KEITH'S UNION SQUARE THEATRE. - Resident Manager Fynes is again to the front with a splendid selection of entertainers for this week. On Monday, Dec. 13, the house was packed in every part, and Dec. 13, the house was packed in every part, and the numbers turned away for want of accommoda-tions would have given the box office statement a big boost had the house been large enough to hold all applicants for admission. That the bill pleased big boost had the house been large enough to hold all applicants for admission. That the bill pleased greatly was evident from the applause which followed the several specialities, Gautier's equine act being especially marked for favor. The American debut of Rudinoff, an extremely clever enterisiner, was an important factor in the list. His specially is entertaining to a marked degree, and his American visit should result greatly to his advantage. Georgia Gardner and Edgar Elyoffered their pretty little sketch, "A Wife's Stratagem," with their accustomed success, a strong hit being registered by these pleasing entertainers. Ben R. Harney, who bears credit for making "rag time" piano playing public, appeared in his agreeable specialty and made a hit. His colored assistant also lined up well in favor, and the entire act proved about the best on the bill. Whitney Brothers and their assistant, Presto, came in for marked approval, their new mu ical act being a vast improvement over anything they had previously introduced. They were great favorlites as were Wilbur Hill and Miss Whittaker. Alice Raymond and John Kurkamp scored a strong hit with an act worthy of much commendation, the most pleasing factor of which was Miss Raymond's cornet playing, which long ago brought her into favor. To further the amusement, excelent specialties were put forward by the Five Whiriwinds, marvelous Arabian acrobats; Gertic Cochran. a little miss with wonderful mental development; J. W. Meyers, vocalist; McBride and Goodrich, dancing adepts; Teal and Baker, comedy duo; Grace Milton, soprano, and Lucille Sturges, an excellent dancer. The forty-eighth week of the American biograph is noted on the programme a majority of the fourteen animated pictures being entirely new. Exceedingly timely and interesting is a series of Christmas pictures, which completely expose the prowlings of the children's patron saint. They made a great hit. Next week's change in the programme brings the old favorites, flayes and Lytton, to begin a fornight of trave

John W. Vogel's darkey production, depicting the change of the negro's condition in this country from slavery, pictured as the African's happiest period, to their freedom and subsequent advance-ment. They opened to a good sized house on Monperiod, to their freedom and subsequent advancement. They opened to a good sized house on Monday evening, Dec. 13. Specialties are contributed by Hampton and Johnson, musical performers; Billy and Cordelia McClain, in their comedy sketch; Edward Winn, descriptive singer, in "Policeman 42." "The Operatic Ball" closes the show, with Mme.Cordelia as prima donna, Lawrence E. Chenault, tenor; Edward Winn, baritone, and Billy McClain. The chorus is well drilled and the selections were well rendered. The entire performance is well staged and gave entire satisfaction. Edwin De Coursey is business manager for Mr. Vogel; I. S. Potts, agent; Chas. Grimesly, treasurer; Robert Irving, stage manager; Billy McClain, amusement director; Henderson Smith, band leader; Oscar Lindsay, musical director. John Rucker, Gil Geary, Geo. Bailey, Walter Jackson, Pete Hampton, Charles Johnson, G. B. Brown, Frank Kirk, Ernest Wagner, Wm. Porter, Elia-Dawson, Helen Scott, Saille Lee and Robert Irving were seen to advantage in the various darkey diversions. Next week, "The Sunshine of Paradisa Alley."

was at a premium at Proctor's uptown resort on Monday, Dec. 13, which starts in again this week on the continuous plan, 1.30 to 11 P. M. Nellie Waters starts the performance with her rough Celtic and negro character oddities. Charles T. Ellis, in and negro character oddities. Charles T. Ellis, in his one act comedy, "Mrs. Hogan's Music Teacher," put the house in a good humor. Charles W. Miller, winner of the six days bicycle race of last week, was another applause securing card. Rawson and June did a remarkably clever citly luggling act, followed by boomerang throwing. Joe Cawthorne, as a German comedian and instrumentalist, found favor. Edner Collins captivated the house with her pleasing presence, assisted by her whistling abilities. Elizabeth Lawrence (Baroness Blanc) evidently satisfied the audience. Reno and Richards, eccentric and humorous acrobats, evoked mirth, and the other good numbers on the bill included the Handicap Trio, Lillie and Annie Kenwick, and Harry Devere, comedians, dancers and vocalists; Lillie Jerome, in descriptive songs; Americus Comedy Four, singers and comedians; Ladell and Alvers, in an acrobatic sketch; Jones, Grant and Jones, colored entertainers of merit; Sharp and Flatt, musical team, all combined, sending a well pleased audience home.

LONDON THEATRE.—The Rentz-Santley Co. is playing a return engagement here this week, opening ing a return engagement here this week, opening to a good house on Monday evening. Dec. 13. Several changes are noticeable on the programme showing a marked improvement in the general effect. "A World of Pleasure," the burlesque, effect. "A World of Pleasure," the burlesque, which runs throughout the evening in thirteen scenes, serves to introduce the spectacular features, which are of the best, as well as the specialties, which include Lottie Elliott's eccentric double dance, Joseph J. Sullivan's comedy, Fisher and Crowell's acrobatic comedy sketch, Sisters Engstrom's singing turn, concluding with "Beer," Lawson and Ward, a duo of clever bicyclists, in a comedy act, during which they show several clever tricks; Harry S. Marion, in his singing specialty; Nellie Burt, a comely comedienne; Lottle Elliott, in her skipping rope dance; Frances Nanon, in her clever bag punching act, and Tyrene and Evalyne, in their French dance. Next week, Miaco's City Club Co.

MINER'S BOWERY THEATRE.-Irwin Brothers Buriesquers is filling an engagement here this week, opening Dec. 13. The specialty bill includes Geo. Sidney and Minerva Lee, Woods and Irving, Frank La Mondue, Kilroy and Royson, Harvey Sis-Frank La Mondue, Kirroy and Royson, Harvey Sisters, the De Varos and Dick Leggett. The burlesque closed the show. The comedy work throughout, principally by George Sidney and Guy Rawson, is raw to the extreme, and they are very careful to impress the audience with the full meaning of their remarks. The Barrison Sisters' act was prettily dressed and worked by five of the girls. Mr. Irwin will make material changes in the troape after this week. The burlesque should certainly undergo a thorough laundrying. Next week, Louis Robie's Knickerbockers.

a thorough laundrying. Next week, Louis Robie's Knickerbockers.

KNICKERBOCKER THEATRE.—Nat C. Goodwin has been very fortunate this season, so far as his metropolitan engagement is concerned. He is well located, he has an interesting play, and excellent support in Maxine Elliott and the other members of his company. He is now in the ninth week of a prosperous engagement.

GARRICK THEATRE.—Maude Adams, in "The Little Minister" is now in the sixth week of her enor his company. He is now in the minin week of a prosperous engagement.

Garrick Thratre.—Maude Adams, in "The Little Minister," is now in the sixth week of her engagement at this house, and is playing to the capacity. Her manager, Charles Frohman, has not only canceled her out of town engagements, but he has secured another metropolitan theatre for his forthcoming productions, and it is therefore probable that Miss Adams will remain here until Spring. Lyceum Thratre.—Mr. Pinero's fine comedy, "The Princess and the Butterfy," now in the fourth week of its run at this house, is meeting with liberal reward. The play is one of unusual merit and worthy of the attention of the most intelligent class. HOYT'S THEATRE.—"A Stranger in New York" began on Dec. 13 the sixth week of a successful run. The hundredth performance is underlined for 15, when souvenirs will be presented as usual. MURRAY HILL THEATRE.—"Rose Michel" is the current bill, in which McKee Rankin and Rose Eytinge appeared on Dec. 13 in the leading roles, and received worthy assistance from the others of the house stock, while material aid was furnished by the management in the generous staging and costuming of the production. Miss Eytinge appeared in the ittular role, a part which she played when this play was first offered here, many years ago, and her work in this revival proved most commendable.

Doris' Winter Circus has evidently come to stay, and is now receiving encouraging support. It is certainly deserving of success, which now seems likely to be its reward. The bill for week beginning bec. 13 (fourth week) was made up of favorites held over from last week, several of the performers introducing newacts. A good sized crowd was present.

Budot Theatre.—Standing room only and little.

was present.

BLIOU THEATER.—Standing room only and little of that continues to be the order of things at this house, where May Irwin still presents "The Swell Miss Fitzwell." She began her fifth week Dec. 13.

MANHATAN THEATER.—George Richards and Eugene Candeld began Dec. 13 their second week at this house, in "My Boys." The twin stars are as adept mirth provokers as of yore, and are still prime metropolitan favorites.

Weber & Fields' Music Hall.—"Pousse Cafe" began its third week Dec. 13, before an audience that filled every seat and every bit of standing room. The merry buriesque has been gone over since its first production, and it would be hard to find a more enjoyable entertainment in the city. The public seem to fully appreciate this, as since the opening night people have been turned away at each evening performance, while the matiness are well attended. The oilo included Lew Dockstader, who was as amusing as ever. As a finish to his act Mr. Dockstader sang "I Wants My Lulu," for the closing chorus of which he introduced the animated music score, as produced by him in this city about ten years ago, at his minstrel hall. In this chorus the notes are painted on a white curtain, and each note head is represented by a darkey's head, the owner of the same singing only the note represented in the stave. On the opening night the darkies gave evidence of insufficient rehearsal, and much good effect was lost in consequence. Salem Hadjali's Troupe of Arabian Acrobats, and Blocksom and Burns, in their knockabout act, were also well liked. Bessie Clayton, whose illness prevented her opening with the burlesque bec. 2, mad her first appearance 9, during the performance of "Pousse Cafe," and introduced several striking dances, for which she received hearly approval. She is still on the bill.

FIFTH AVENUE THEATES.—Alexandra Viards, for her last week's offering, presented on Dec. 13 Mos. WEBER & FIELDS' MUSIC HALL .- "Pousse Cafe"

FIFTH AVENUE THEATES.—Alexandra Viarda, for her last week's offering, presented on Dec. 13 Mosenthal's "Deborah," better known to our theatre goers as "Leah, the Forsaken," and, while it gave her much better opportunities than did her previous offering, "Alexandra," she gave little evidence of her much heralded abtilty as an actress, and further confirmed the verdict already rendered. She spoke her lines in German, while her support spoke the English tongue. The cast was by no means satisfactory, Kraft Walton, as Abraham, and A. H. Stuart, as Lorenz, deserving the most mention. The cast in full: Nathan, E. J. Henley; Joseph, Albert Gran; Lorenz, A. H. Stuart; the Pastor, Frank Evans; Peter, Clifford Pembroke; Abraham, Kraft Walton; Reuben, H. C. Duff, Anns, Margaret Raven; Martha, Alice Gordon; Rose, Dorothy Usner; Jewess, Ellen Cummens; Little Deborah, Little Elvira, and Deborah, Alexandra Viarda. Charles Coghlan, in his new play, "A Royal Box," follows 20.

HUER'S PALACE MUSEUM.—Helen Coppage began the second week of what Manager Anderson assures all comers is a genuine sixly day fast on Monday, Dec. 13. The blg crowds in attendance evidently have great faith in these assertions of the management, as the lady was a source of wonderment for all. While this is the feature of the bill, the curio hall display is as large and mystifying as ever, and the hourly stage performances enlist the services of several able entertainers. All told, the amusement is fully up to the high class generally maintained here.

PEOPLE'S THEATRE.—Charles Leonard Fletcher is seen here this week in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and in the dual character gave general satisfaction to the large audience Monday evening. The cast seen here this week in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and in the dual character gave general satisfaction to the large audience Monday evening. places of amusement in this section during the past week, and can be attributed to bad weather. At-the Hartein Opera House "Under the Red Robe" was presented by the Empire Theatre Stock Co. on Dec. 13. The cast was a capable one in every respect, and met with a warm reception, and will, no doubt, do a big week's business, judging from the opening night, when the house was full. Next week, Julia Arthur, in "A Lady of Quality."

Harlem Music Halt.—Business continues to improve, and as the weeks go by more firmly cement their by'd on the public in this part of the city, and unless all signs fail it is only a question of time when they will be unable to accommodate the crowd The bill this week is a first class one in every respect, and includes: August Van Biene. Belle Hathaway, Ronke and Burnette, Horace Goldin Flato warp: Came for a week's stay 13. OLUMIUS.—It is a cool house, the upper part being packed, and indications point to a continuance through out the week, as this style of show never fails to draw a top heavy house. Chuck Connors was featured Next week, "When London Sleepe."

METROPIOLIS—'The Man-o War's Man' opened to a good sized audience 13, and should do well all week, as the company met with a warm reception on the opening night. The play is well suited to the patrons of the house. Next week's well suiteds to the patrons of the house. Next week's williess of the patrons of the house. Next week's business 6-11. Fred Rider's Moulin R-uge Extravaganza Co made its first Harlem appearance to a good sized house and created a favorable impression. The ladies display fine forms, beautiful costumes and pretty faces, and the company stands a good chance of doing a good week's business. Next week, Harlem Museum.—Virginia Knapp, Prof. Lattle, La Bella Thornton. Balbroma, Ben Carper Carrie Monroe, Facey and Gorman, Sulby and Moore, and Edison's projectoscope.

Q to Kt 2+, K X; and Kt mates. Simply beyond praise.

En We need not give the two move solutions, unless, indeed, some welcome beginner asks us to do so; in that case we will answer with pleasure. This idea furnishes an amusing study. Suppose Mr. Laws to be set aside and some other master critic who would be as much more less exacting with merit marks than Mr. Rayner as that gentleman was than Mr. Law, how would these prize problems have been graded then? We have seen very little criticism on the award; but, after watching pretty closely, seem to discover a trend towards placing Mr. Shater's opus No. 1. No one. sepecially Mr. Laws (vide Orttique) seems to look upon Mr. Blake's 'key' as in quite perfect keeping with the other features of the first prize. In other words, how can a problem, mong rank No. 1?

SIX DAYS' TOURNAMENT.

C. W. Miller Wins, Covering Over Two Thousand Miles, and Far Excelling Former Records — Rice Second, Sixty-seven Miles Behind; Schinneer Third and Hale Fourth—A Short Track Cuts Down the Scores.

The most remarkable six days' bicycle race that ever took place since the safety machine was invented closed at Madison Square Garden, this city, on Saturday evening, Dec. 11. at ten o'clock, in the presence of a wildly enthusiastic mass of people, who filled every seat and every foot of floor space in the mammoth structure. It was remarkable as a display of pluck, endurance and speed combined, the leaders of the long struggle persevering with a determination worthy of a better cause, and deservhe leaders of the long struggle persevering with a determination worthy of a better cause, and deserving of better financial reward, in the struggle for supremery, honor and a modicum of cash, and the winner setting a mark that will probably never again be reached in a similar contest. Unfortunately the managers of the affair were too careless, apparently, to take the trouble to have the track properly surveyed by a competent civil engineer, thus ensuring its correct length, and after the tourney had been several days under way it was discovered that the circuit was short, notwithstanding the affidavit of C. W. Ashinger that it was full length.

This detracted somewhat from the glory of the winner, who, however, allowance being made for the shortage, still finished many miles shead of the record made by Teddy Hale last Winter. The score of the winner, C. W. Miller, according to the scorers' figures, was 2.003 miles 4 laps. Hall's record was 1,910 miles 1,408 yards, a performance which he fell far short of on this occasion, mainly due to trouble with his stomach during the first and second days, which necessitated him repeatedly dismounting for rest and attention, and compelled him to nurse himself while on the track. He was probably the freshest man on the path on the closing day, but as even third place was beyond his reach he did not greatly exert himself toward the finish.

Miller assumed the lead in the forty-first hour, supplanting Stephane, who had succeeded Waller for wo hours, and maintained it to the finish, the issue having been practically settled on Wednesday evening, when he had gained an advantage of seventy-five miles; still Rice, Rivierre and Schinneer were ridding too persistently, and rapidly, and pluckily for him to take any chances: consequently he continued to force the pace with astonishing steadiness, reeling off an average of about eighteen miles an hour and managing to get along with surprisingly little rest or sleep until about seven o'clock on Saturday evening, when the first three me

All the men in the race on the closing day were, of course, "dead tried," as a result of their prolonged exertion and loss of sleep, and in some instances the natural result of constant circling around a nine lap track, day and night, somewhat affected the mental faculties of a few of the competitors, who also complained of saddle soreness and inflammation of the eyes, caused by the glare of the electric lights and the smoke laden atmosphere; but on the whole they were by no means the seeming physical wrecks that some persons persisted in representing them. No sort of physical exertion can be maintained for any great length of time without entailing more or less suffering, but in competitions of this kind it is chiefly the want of natural sleep that causes all the trouble that does not come from the stomach, and after the first forty-eight hours are tided over even the lack of opportunity to "woo nature's sweet restorer" does not prove so great a hardship as at the commencement of the long journey.

During the last two days several examinations of the contestants were made by Drs. Palmer, Nesbitt and Johnson, of the Police Department, at the instance of Chief of Police McCullagh, aroused to action by reports of brutality in connection with the race, and after such examinations several of the competitors, including Rice, were ordered to take needed rest, although the surgeons' report was to the effect that all the men were in a normal condition, and that in each instance the heart was active, full and strong. On Friday evening the French long distance rider, Gaston Rivierre, who had managed by dint of persisient and fast pedaling, to succeed in getting in front of Rice, and reduce the lead of Miller during the day, began to feel the effects of the steady work he had been doing, and thrice he fell from his wheel, the last time severely injuring his knee. H as the volume retents perton of the contestants concerned.

The last medical examination of the contestants was made at 5 r. m. on Saturday, and here is the favorable return of the surgeons, which should bear witness to the unreliability of the foolish assertions so persistently made in public print by unthinking extremists in the humanitarian line, who look with horror upon such tests of human courage and endurance as that which was presented to the denizens of Greater New York during the past eleventh, $75. The attendance throughout the week, from the opening night until the last minute, was larger than the managers had any reason to anticipate, the building being filled to overnowing aimost every evening, a big crowd being generally present after three o'clock in the afternoon, while more than two thousand remained in the Garden all night on Friday, hundreds were there throughout every night, and at one dollar admission the crush on Saturday night was tremendous. The scene, as regards the size of the crowd and the enthusiasm displayed, reminded the older patrons forcibly of that which marked the closing hours of the memorable six days go as you please races that took place there a number of years ago. The affair was certainly highly profitable to the management, but the profits are, perhaps, less than the general public would suppose, as it costs much money to prepare for and run a race of this description; still, after the Madison Square Garden Co.'s 30 per cent, was deducted, the "big four," who were entitled to share, had every reason to congratulate themselves upon their good fortune, for the amount realized will serve to more than comfortably tide them over the Winter.

CHAIRMAN A. O. McGARRATT, of the records committee of the Century Roads Club, announces the acceptance of the record of Lieut. H. D. Wise, New York Athletic Club, for the journey between New York and Washington, D. C., 27b. 39m., Oct. 14, 1897.

DIAMOND FIELD GOSSIP.

Latest Sayings and Doings of the Baseball Frateraity.

A Cincinnati paper says: "Frank Bancroft has his pockets full of maps of routes to Texas. One thing only is settled. The Reds will not have to walk there." But it doesn't state how they are to get back home again. No doubt the walking will be good by that time.

The Sporting Negs of Dec. 11 subjlished a long.

The Sporting News of Dec. 11 published a long article on the death of Charles J. Smith, the famous old Atlantic third baseman, whose death occurred on Nov. 18, and g. res The Brooklyn Raple credit for it. Had Editor Spink looked at his copy of THE NEW YORK CLIFFER of Nov. 27 he would have seen the original article about Smith, which The Eagle used verbatim without giving any credit.

J. Earl Wagner, of the Washington Club, seems to be more than pleased with the deal between his club and Baltimore, in which six players figured. He said, in recently speaking about the matter: "Do you think we have made a mistake in exchanging mechanical ball players for brains? We have the best end of the deal as it stands today, If McGann is the great man that all managers and players claim, then there is a chance of the deal breaking even. All the managers previous to Brown had a desire to develop 'phenoms' We have changed our policy and in the future Washington will not be a 'kindergarten' for other clubs. The club, with the additian of the three Baltimore men, who are as foxy as the best of them, will contain only one or two mechanical players. Without a first class infield a club cannot win. Take the first five clubs in the championship race of '97—I except the New York club because their pitchers pulled them through—all of whom had great infields. The only place that I feel the least bit anxious about is third base, and yet we have three fast young men to select from for that position—Smith, Leahy and Wagner. The pitching force of any club is more or less a lottery, but we think we are all right there, especially if Swaim can master a quicker motion while delivering the ball, so as to hold runners closer to the bases. As an illustration of the strength of the Washingtons next year place the following team in the field: Farrell, Mercer, Doyle, Reitz, Wrigley, Smith, Selbach, Brown and Gettman, There is a team that will average in batting strength .312. There is not a slow man in the nine, and as for brains, they have the gray matter to give away. As an offset to the above nine let me name the nine that represented Washington quite often last year: McGuire, McJames, Tucker, O'Brien, DeMontreville, Reilly, Selbach, Brown and Abbey. How does it show up in comparison? Yet this latter aggregation won games for us last year. Charley Reilly goes to Minnespolis, Tommy Tucker and Seybold will most likely figure i Wagner will be on the roll all the season in case of necessity."

Oaptain W. W. Kerr, late president of the Pittsburg Club, sold his stock in the club on Dec. 10, and hereafter would have no financial interest in the club. The purchaser is P. L. Auten, of Chicago, vice president of the club, who now owns all except twenty-five shares of the stock. These few shares are held by President W. H. Watkins and J. K. Tener, of Pittsburg. The transfer of the stock now makes it certain that the Pittsburg team will play Sunday games away from home next season. President Watkins and Vice President Auten are favorable to the proposition and are being urged to make the move. By the stand taken by Captain Kerr against Sunday ball it is claimed the club lost many thousands of dollars, which other clubs picked up, in cities where Sunday ball is allowed. Captain Kerr said: "I have been wasting to get out of baseball for some time. My business demands my entire attention, and after I refused to accept a re election as president I made arrangements to sell out my interest. I do not own a dollar's worth of stock now." Captain Kerr became identified with baseball during the brotherhood revolt in 1890. He is a partner of Arbuckles Bros., who are fighting the sugar trust. His time is fully taken up looking after the Pittsburg interest of the firm.

A dispatch from Sharon, Pa., says: "A movement is on foot to put a good basebal team in Sharon next season. Several Youngstown men are back of the project and they will try to put the team on a good baseball footing again. They will draft players from the minor leagues and will pay them good wages. A schedule with some of the nearby towns will be arranged and some games will be played with the Interstate clubs on off dates. The town has a fine ball park, but has not had a salaried team since 1895, when Manager Herrington, late of the Wheeling Inter-State League team, undertook to run the club. The new team will be entirely operated by outside parties."

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Lancaster Club, of the Atlantic League, was held Dec. 9, at Lancaster, Pa. The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: David L. Deen, Charles M. Strim, W. D. Madigan, A. B. Hassler, Edwin Eberman Jr., Milton H. Hartman. The directors subsequently elected: A. K. Spurrier, president: Chester W. Cummings, treasurer, and C. P. Stoner, secretary. By a unanimous vote Frank P. Rinn was re-elected as manager for next year.

The Athletic Association of the West Jersey Academy at Reidgeton, N. J. has elected Albert.

Rinn was re-elected as manager for next year.

Academy, at Bridgeton, N. J., has elected Albert McAllister manager of its ball team for 1898. At the South Jersey Institute, of the same place, Ephraim Mulford has been elected manager of next season's ball team.

President Meyers, of the Fort Wayne Club, has signed Leon De Montreville, a brother of the one who figured in the Washington-Baltimore deal, Arthur Swaim, a brother of the Washington Club Swaim, and John Dirsk, of Grand Haven, Mich. The first named is a short stop, and the other two are pitchers. This makes six new players signed by President Meyers.

Martin Bergen, the principal catcher of the Boston team, is reported as having bought a farm near East Brookfield, Mass. Connie Mack, manager of the Milwaukee team, of the Western League, is said to own a farm near where Bergen is reported as having purchased his.

to own a farm pair where Bergen is reported as having purchased his.

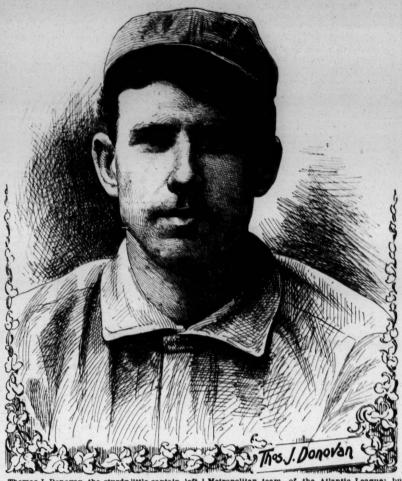

John B. Day, formerly the principal stockholder of the New York City Club, is quoted as saying: "Although baseball is now a clean sport, it would be played by the New York team more cleanly than ever on Sundays. I believe the club omicals will be compelled to yield to the pressure of the masses." If Mr. Day is correctly quoted he must have changed his views at this late day, as he did not think so a few years ago. At the close of the World's championship series at St. Louis, in 1888, he disbanded his team, so that it could play a Sunday game as individual players and not as members of the New York Club. Nor would he (Mr. Day) have any share of the gate receipts.

Manager Lytle, who will have charge of the New Castle team, of the Inter-State League, next season, says that he will have a much better team next year than the one that represented that city last season. "I will do my utmost to obtain the confidence of the men who will work under me, and I expect to end the season at the top or very near the top of it in the race for the pennant. Three of the men are over six feet tall, are young, and they can play the game, and are good at the bat."

James Canavan, who was with the Brooklyn Club last season, has demurred against being game, and are good at the bat."

James Canavan, who was with the Brooklyn Club last season, has demurred against being traded to Syracuse for Pitcher Lampe. He says players have some rights, and he for one proposes to have his. Canavan has been offered the management of the New Bedford team, of the Eastern League, for next season. If he can get his release from Brooklyn he will play with the team, otherwise he will manage it from the bench. If we are not greatly mistaken Brooklyn will prevent him from doing even that, as he will be on its reserve list, and New Bedford is under protection of the national agreement.

delder and pitcher of the Meriden team, champions of the Connecticut State League, who probably did more than any other player towards his club's success during the past season, was born Jan. 1, 1873, at West Troy, N. Y. He began his baseball career as pitcher for the Delanys, a crack amateur team of Troy, in 1892. He participated in thirty-two games that season, winning twenty-five and losing seven.
In 1893 he was algned by the Troy Club, of the Eastern League, whose team was under the management of the late Tommy Cabill. Donovan remained with the Troys until they disbanded, July 26, 1894, when he was assigned to the new Scranton team, which had been admitted to the Eastern League circuit to fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of the Troy Club. In 1895 Donovan was engaged to manage the Amsterdam team, of the New York State League, and his club was in second place in the race for the pennant when the league disbanded, and he immediately signed with the Brockton Club, of the New England League, finishing the season with its teams. He began the season of 1896 with the Courtland team, of the New York State League, and in July of that year President
Freedman, of the New York Club, signed him for his of the Connecticut State League, who probably did

Thomas J. Donovan, the sturdy little captain, left | Metropolitan team, of the Atlantic League; but about that time the Mets were voted out of the Atlantic League and were disbanded, Donovan Atlantic League and were disbanded, Donovan finishing the season with the Springfield Club, of the Eastern League. At the beginning of the past season Manager John C. Chapman engaged him for his Meriden team. He participated in twentyone championship games as a pitcher, winning eighteen and losing three. When he was not pitching he played left field, being used constantly on account of his heavy batting ability. One of his best pitching performances during the past season occurred on Labor Day, when he held the Torrington team down to one safe hit. His best batting feat in any one game was against the Bristols, when he made a safe hit, including two home runs and a triple bagger, each of the five times he went to the bat. He was one of Manager Chapman's winning pitchers. He watches the bases well, handles himself nicely in the pitcher's position, has lots of speed, good curves and a fast ball, which is said to be very bothersome to the batsmen. It was largely through his clever pitching that the Meriden team landed in first place in the Connecticut State League pennant race. He is naturally good natured, which makes him very popular with everyone.

President Johnson, of the Western League, has a scheme which, if he is successful in carrying out, should not only prove interesting, but would be a novelty among the minor leagues. His idea is to meet the Eastern League magnates in January to complete arrangements for a championship series of games at the end of next year's season between the winning teams of the Eastern and Western Leagues. This, he avers, is his sole object in telegraphing for a special Buralo meeting, not to consider the drafting question, as has been stated. It is planned that a series of seven games be scheduled. The first three of these will be played in the city of the team winning the championship of the Eastern League, while the next three will be decided in the Western League city that captures the pennant of that league. In the event of a tie the seventh and deciding contest would take place on neutral grounds. Undoubtedly the plan is a good one, and, if adopted, will revive an interest in baseball that has been lying dormant since the demise of the old American Association. In those days the people were treated to a post series of games for the world's championship between the respective champion teams of the National League and the American Association, and they had a far better and worthier object in view than simply a gate money affair that marked the Temple, Cup games. Still, it appears rather singular that President Johnson should just happen to think of his plan after President Young made the announcement of the amendments the National Board of Arbitration were willing to concede the minor leagues in the drafting rules, and hastily use the telegraphic system asking for a special meeting with the Eastern League at Buffalo at an early date, when he could just as easily have submitted his plans to that body in writing. However, it may have been a mere coincidence that the two things happened at the same time.

Charles P. Dehler, vice president of the Louisville Club, says Louisville will be given a surprise in the baseball line in the near future. "I want to announce that we have our lines out for three good star men," he said recently. "Personally I am tired of experiments, and from the prospects I believe that Louisville will have a first rate team for next year. No, I cannot give out any of the details of the men," he said recently. "Personally I am tired of experiments, and from the prospects I believe that Louisville will have a first rate team for next year. No, I cannot give out any of the details of the trades we are trying to make. 'All this previous talk about deals for good major league players was done without my knowledge, and, until a day or so ago, there was no truth in the rumors. Now, however, matters begin to look brighter, and the public can rest assured that we will have a much stronger team next season than we had last year. For some time we have felt that a poor team was a losing investment, and we have decided that a good team will prove a money maker here. Good players are very hard to get, but by the liberal use of money I feel sure we can get the men we want. No, I cannot say whether the new men will be infielders, out fielders, or pitchers or catchers. Such announcement would breed discontent among the men we now have. I will just say that we will have the new men all right, and they will be placed in the positions which need them most."

The deal between the Baltimore and Washington Clubs has been consummated. It includes the transfer of Doyle, Reliz and Amole, of the former, to Washington in exchange for McGann, De Montreville and McJames. Each club gives and receives a first baseman, a second baseman and a pitcher. From a cursory giance it looks as if Manager Hanlon has walked out of the large end of the horn again. Time will tell, however, which was the principal gainer.

The Eastern League wanted Jersey City to be the successor of Scranton, but President Freedman, of the New York Club, objected to the plan, insisting upon the enforcement of the five mile clause in the national agreement, which prevents any league from locating a club within five miles of one where there is already a national agreement club.

The Louisville critics, in fear that Santa Claus will overlook their team when placing the major league clubs, have decided it shall head the list of the second division clubs in the next season's race for the pennant.

George Wood, the veteran ex-professional player, is to be one of President Young's umpires next season, and "there are others."

The new International League has put on its swadding clothes and has asked for protection under the national agreement. The saiary limit is stated to be $750.

President Franklin, of the Buffaio Club, of the Eastern League, said that the recent Eastern League meeting was harmonious in every respect, and that there was no factional fighting or other sensational features. "Newark," said Mr. Franklin, "will probably be the successor of Scranton, which has had enough of the game and is more than ready to quit. At present Newark is a member of the Atlantic League, but if it can make satisfactory arrangement with Scranton, and there is little or no question as to that, it will transfer its club to the Eastern League. It ought to prove a very acceptable addition as it has a large population, more than 200,000, and has a reputation of the best sort in the baseball world. Thomas P. Burns, the old Baltimore and Brooklyn player, is now the owner of the team, or at least he is the ostenable owner, and he is anxious to come into our league. It think he will make a success of the Newarks, both financially and otherwise. There are three men at least now under reserve at Scranton, whom I hope to get for the Buffalo team within a few weeks," said Mr. Franklin. "If I do some of our present players will probably have to go. Not that the newcomers may be any better, actually, understand, but then the policy of change is sometimes worth trying. Bonner is one of the men I hope to land. He is a splendid player, but so is Wise. Sam led the second basemen according to President Powers' official averages, which I saw in New York, and was eighth or ninth in batting. Bo you see he is a very desirable man. We would also like Centre Fielder Walters, also of the Scrantons. He is a good hard hiter and a splendid fielder. He would strengthen our team, which I hope will be strong enough to win the pennant the coming Summer. We have two good catchers in Urquhart and Smith, but we may dispose of one of these men in a trade and I think that Gunson would prove a good man to fill the vacancy. He isn't as young as some others but he is heady and takes good care of himself. With such a may be him the part of thirty men, this will be quite an item of expense saved.

The Boston directorate seems to be divided on the question of purchasing Jack Taylor's release from the St. Louis Glub. Director Conant believes that his club would get back its money in one month, while Director Soden is not so sure about that. However, the matter will be left for Manager Selee to settle. The latter is now gathering Klon dike nuggets on the Pacific coast.

The old Brotherhood Park, upon which the Chicago Glub has paid $5,000 rental every year for seven years, will soon pass back to its owners as the lease has about expired. The owners of the Chicago Glub will be glad to get rid of it as it has not paid them a cent in return for the $35,000 which they paid out in rentals. It is said that the grand stand, which originally cost about $55,000 is salmost a total ruin, no attempt having been made to keep it in a state of repair.

George S. Davis, the clever short stop of the New York team, has been selected to coach the students who will make an effort to get a place on Columbia College's team next season. Carter, formerly the noted pitcher of Yale's University team, is expected to coach Golumbia's pitching corps next year.

Joseph Harris, a player whose home is in Ontario, N. Y., died recently from injuries received during a game played in June of this year.

The Temple Cup muddle thickens with each week. The cup belongs to Mr. Temple. President Young wants it, Manager Hanion who has it refuses to surrender it, and now the committee that was appointed at the recent major league meeting to decide the matter wants to know "where it is at."

"Jimmy Denny, the former great third baseman, is now a real boniface."—Exchange. Jimmy! Well, what is fame? Wonder if Jeremish would recognize the pseudo?

P. L. Auten, vice president and one of the principal owners of the Pittsburg Club, said in a recent interview: "As far as I can judge we will be all right in Pittsburg next year. One thing I do know definitely is that everything that can be done is being done to get a winning team here. It is time we had one, for there is not in this country a more loyal lot of patrons of baseball than those who patronize the Pittsburg team. And I may add that no man tried barder to get a winning team here than did Mr. Kerr. It was the ambition of his life to get a winning team in this city, and I have just been as eager in this respect as he. But somehow or other there has always been something to interfere with the prospect of the team just when we all alought we had a winner. It is worthy of note with a country to the prospect of the team just when we all alought we had a winner. It is worthy of most winning team to start the season with, and after about two months the team has gone all to pieces. There have been causes for this, and the causes have not been because of the inferiority of the players, for the players could not honestly deteriorate from really good men to very bad playars in about a month. These many collapses in our team have been a greater source of trouble to me because of the public here than any money that may have been loat to us as stockholders of the club. Pittsburg patrons of the game deserve much better treatment than they have been getting for a season or two, and you can depend upon it that President Watkins has full power to get the best players that are to be had. We have secured a man to look after the team that promise the hope strongly have been and the promise singular than they have been seen getting for a season or two, and you can depend upon it that President Watkins has full power to get the best players that are to be had. We have secured a man to look after the team that promise the promise seen the season, and I really have been faced. The promise seen the season and I really have bee

"Season by season the old league clubs are peeling off the cloth of sack, cutting the ashes out of their menu, and stretching the horizon of their minds," writes Earl Wagner, one of the principal owners of the Washington Club. "Even Pittaburg has fallen into the liberal ways of the association, by deciding to play Sunday bail next year, and I have it from good authority that Freedman will request Uncle Nick Young to assign Sunday games for the Glants' in the away from home section of the schedule. I have a sneaking impression that Freedman will spring the Sunday bail topic on the Freedman will spring the Sunday bail topic on the New York enthu-lasts by degrees—kind of try it on the dog; that is, if he sees no kick made against the Sabbath games away from the Polo Grounds, he will lay wires in Tammany Hail that will connect for Sunday games at One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Street. If we, the partners of twelve, keep on at the glidy and sporty gait struck by Pittaburg, we will reach President Soden, of Boston, and Uncle Nick Young will yet include his club in the Sunday playing schedule."

Charles A. Comiskey, president of the St. Paul Learn of the Westlern League, it quoted as a saving.

Sunday playing schedule."

Charles A. Comiskey, president of the St. Paul team, of the Western League, is quoted as saying:

'I am sure that the Western League will not accept the amendments imposed upon the minor leagues in regard to the drafting of players at the recent Philadelphia meeting; for, while the major league, may have seemed to favor us in that they granted the two points we asked for—restricting the number of players to be drafted from any one club to two each year, and not allowing a man to be subject to draft until he has been in our league two years these favors are more than offset by the conditions imposed in the way of giving the National League and American Association a right to reclaim a 'loaned' player on thirty days' notice. Why, we would a great deal rather leave the rules as they were than to allow them to do that. With Why, we would a great deal rather leave the rules as they were than to allow them to do that. With that rule in force they could wreck one of our clubs any time they wanted to and force us to do what they wanted in the way of deals. I do not fully understand whether the National League and American Association insists on this clause before it grants us the concessions we asked for, or whether they have simply requested us to make the concession in regard to loaned players; if the three changes have to live or die together I am by all means in favor of letting them die, and I think the other members of our league will think the same way about it."

an means in tavor or tetting them die, and I think the other members of our league will think the same way about it."

A. J. Reach, president of the Philadelphia Club, is very enthusiastic over the prospects for another season. He always has lots to say about the affairs of the national game and particularly about the way they are managed by the major league. He strongly advocates a rule that will effectively stop rowdyism on the bail field. He said: "I look for a revival of interests in the sport next year. All the clubs of the major league are trying to strengthen weak points in their teams, and the indications are that there will be a lively struggle in the next championship race. The Pittsburg Club has obtained a competent manager in the person of W. H. Watkins, and I hope the people of Pittsburg will appreciate himf With a man like Mr. Watkins at the head of the club the patrons there should, and doubtless will, have confidence in the team. We were unfortunate in Philadelphia last season, but I think the experience obtained by our manager, Mr Stallings, will be of great-benefit to him next Summer. When the patrons of the game lose confidence in the manager of their favorite club they also lose confidence in the whole team and the attendance falls off in consequence. "I look for Mr. Stallings to show a vast-improvement in the manner of handing our team next season, and a full restoration of confidence on the part of our patrons."

"Billy Earle, the Little Globe Trotter, has dropped measurerism, hypnotism, book writing, turf imformation and various other occupations that he has tried his hand at the past year, and gone into the picture frame business," says The Cincinnati Enquirer. "The ball player has an invention of his friends are helping him out with orders for picture frames. At the rate he started out it will not be long until the Little Globe Trotter is on his feet again."

The Short Bicycle Track.

The managers of the recent bicycle tournamen at Madison Square Garden, compelled to take such action in consequence of the discovery that the supposed nine lap track upon which the contest ants rode was considerably short, and that therefore the alleged records would not hold water, had two surveyors make official measurements of the path on Sunday morning, Dec. 12, which surveys proved the reports of shortage to be well founded, as witness the following:

No Reciprocity in Bicycles.

No Reciprocity in Bicycles.

The Secretary of the Treasury has sent to the State Department a decision on the question of a reciprocal tariff arrangement, by which it was desired to admit free of duty bicycles accompanied by their riders. Some time ago the League of American Wheelmen called the attention of the State Department to the fact that in several countries of Europe touring bicyclets were allowed to carry their wheels from one country to another, but this concession was confined to the countries which had made a specific agreement to that effect. The United States is not a party to this agreement, and the League of American Wheelmen ascertained that a similar concession might be obtained for them in case the United States should extend a reciprocal privilege to Europeans. The Treasury officials have decided that under the tariff law they have no authority to take such action.

A New Amateur Record.

We have received affidavits, signed by the referee, J. M. Harris, and the timekeepers, John Patterson, M. St. Ten Eyck and D. M. Cameron, of the Heraid Cup race, held at Hamilton, Can., on Thanksgiving morning, Nov. 28, guaranteeing the genuineness of the performance of the winner, Charles H. Bates, an amateur, who ran the distance, 19 miles 188yds., in 2h. Im. 30s. This is now the fastest amateur record in America, the best previous for nineteen miles being 2h. 5m. 49s., by J. Gassman, over a regular path in Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 22, 1884. At our suggestion the course was resurveyed after the race on Thanksgiving Day, and we are in receipt of the certificate of Thomas R. Hewson, Ontario Land Surveyor, establishing its correct length.

The international dumbbell competition constitutes the most attractive feature of the lengthy programme of the New Jersey Athletic Club carnival, which is to take place at Madison Square Garden, this city, evenings of Dec. 17, 18. The competition is to extend over both nights, taking place in the inner ring, where every spectator will have an unobstructed view of the performances.

Peter Lathan and Percy Ashworth gave an exhibition of their skill at racquets at the courts of the Philadelphia (Pa.) Racquet Club on Friday, Dec. 10. Croot Dies from His Injuries. Walter Croot, the English boxer, who was knocked out by Jimmy Barry at the National Sporting Club, London, Eng., on Monday night, Dec. 6. as chronicled in our last issue, did not recover consciousness after being removed from the ring, but expired at 8.30 the following morning. Death was attributed to weakness of the heart. A cablegram says:

piret at 8.30 the following morning. Death was attributed to weakness of the heart. A cablegram says:

'In the last round of the contest Croot made a miscalculation of distance, and, getting too near Barry, received a sharp righthander on the chin and a second blow which sent him to the ropes. Barry followed these with two more punches, which, like the others, were not returned, though Croot made an attempt to ward them off. Then came the knockout blow, which sent Croot to the floor. It seemed to all who witnessed the bout, and to those who examined Croot's body, that he did not receive especially severe punishment. His body shows no signs of blows. The men were equally matched, and Croot had the advantage at times. When he received the knock out blow his head struck the floor heavily. Barry is much distressed over the death of Croot. He at once surrendered himself to the police after hearing of his opponent's death, and was charged with manslaughter. He was arraigned in a police court, together with six officers of the National Sporting Club. All of the prisoners were remanded, but were permitted to obtain bail. The coroner's jary, on Saturday, 11, returned a verdict of accidental death. According to the medical testimony Croot's skull was fractured at the base when be fell in the twenteth round. The prisoners were accordingly discharged.

SAMMY KELLY AND PATSY BRODERICK indulged in a fistic argument at the arena of the Polo Athletic Club, this city, on Saturday evening, Dec. 11, the conditions being twenty rounds, at 116th. It was a workmanlike, hustling, scientific fight from beginning to end, each alternating in the lead, and the final award being in favor of Kelly, after the full limit of time had been reached.

RACING.—After winning the Canified Cup so easily Amberite, the son of Carbine-Duenna, came into more favor for the V. R. C. Derby Aurum, however, remained first favorite, and on the day was quoted at 5 to 2 "on," while about Amberite 5 to 1 "against" was obtainable. The first part of the race was most exciting. At the back of the course, however, Aurum was interfered with and fell back He, however, regained his position and fought it out down the straight with Amberite for about half a furlong. Then the Carbins colt came right away and won comparatively easily. The mile and a half was negotiated in 2m. 39½s. On Tuesday, Nov. 2, there was a brilliant gathering to see the Melbournec Cup run for. On the previous night, at the Victorian Club, the Sydney horse, Ganius, by Gooz Industry, had been backed to win £15,000, but at the last woment the English horse, Positiano, was made a hot favorite, starting at 6 to win £15,000, but at the last woment the English horse, Positiano, was made a hot favorite, starting at 6 to Grafter and Gaulus, both in the same stable, fighting it out, and the last named won the £5,000 stake by half a head in 3m. 3is., amid the excitement of ever 70 000 people. Though he started at 100 to 7, the winner was a bad horse for the ring. The colt Aurum, under, for a three year old, the unprecedented weight of 118b, was prominent all the way, and finished third. On Thuraday, in the Spring Stakes, Aurum and Amberite, both carrying IIEE, met arsin, when favored his superiority by winning from the flying filly Key. Cook. The Rifle Tournament.

One of the principal features at the Sportsmen' Exposition, to be held at Madison Square Garden Jan. 13 to 22, will be the second annual rifle tournament. There will be in the programme of events an individual championship match, open to all, 100 yards, off hand, at a 25 ring target, 100 feet; enan individual championship master, open to all, for yards, off hand, at a 25 ring target, 100 feet; entrance fee $5, which will include a season ticket of admission to the exposition; first prize, championship trophy and $20; the other twelve prizes will divide $110. A continuous match, open to all, 100 feet, off hand, 25 ring target; entrance fee for ticket of three shots, fifty cents; first prize, $50; $140 divided in other prizes. A target of honor, open to all, and a bull's-eye target, open to all, full money prizes and premiums will be given; the target of honor will have $100 in cash prizes. The rules governing are as follow: A shot must cut the ring to count. All targets will be counted and entered by the official scorer, and will be returned to the shooter in case there is no dispute. The referee committee will decide all matters pertaining to doubtful scores. Any sights except telescopes allowed. All questions in dispute not covered by these rules will be decided by the referee committee. Zettier Bros. will have charge of the ranges, and will furnish rifles and suitable ammunition, free to all competitors. All kinds of 22 rim fire ammunition will be on hand.

Frank C. Ives feels very much aggrieved because of the preference given to Schaefer's challenge to Slosson over his own. In an interview last week he expressed himself thus plainly: "I consider that I have been treated shabbily, and if I ever play another match game I will never play for the emblems offered by Brunswick-Baike. I will play either Slosson or Schaefer, and in a long game will concede them 15 per cent of the number of points stipulated upon, and bet as much money on the result as they can scrape together. My challenge was printed as early as 3 o'clock on Monday morning. My intentions were public property on Saturday night, and I offered to nost a forfeit of $250. These things, which I can prove, all considered, I should think my challenge was issued prior to Schaefer's, which was never heard of until Monday just before noon." Slosson will not take part in the forthcoming tournament at the new fangled game in the City of Wind and Spice.

THE INTERCITY TEAM pigeon shooting match between Chicago and Kansas City experts closed at Chicago, Ill., on Saturday, Dec. 11, the five Missourians—C. C. Herman, J. Riley, C. S. Gottlieb, J. B. A RARE OLD COMEDIAN, HARRY LINDLEY. THE PROVINCE, the literary review of Canada, says; "That rare old comedian, Harry Lindley, is playing to full capacity of theatre. He displays more versatility than Jefferson or others, and is as much at home in tragic as in the frothy and frolicsome roles which he has made peculiarly his own, besides which on dit he has played more leading parts than any other man on earth. Fancy in one week 'Arabian Night, 'Poor Gentleman,' 'Dors and Farce,' The Magistrate,' The Man from Gaiway' and a Tender Foot Divine,' and another round similar to follow. He plays his own pleces, which are clever and the whole modern school.' To vary performance—wanted, two 'Variety Ladies. Add. dreas MAN AGER MARSH, Victoria, B. C. Parties going to Klondyke furnished with information regarding mines, outfitting, etc. 'Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., best points, as there are no duties hence to Klondyke.

THE LATEST SONG HIT. READ IT

Papa was lost out at sea, long ago,
We waited all night on the shore,
For he was a life saving captain, you know,
But never came back any more.
Then mamma got sick, Angels took her away.
She said, to a home warm and bright;
"They'll come for my darlings," he tool us "some day,"
Perhaps they are coming tonight.

Chorus.

Two little children, a boy and a girl,
Sat by an old church door,
The girl's little feet were an brown as the curl
That fell on the dress that she wore.
The boy's coat was faded, and hatless his head,
A tear shone in each little eye:
"Why don't you run home to your mamma," I said,
And this was the maiden's reply:

"Mamma's in Heaven, they took her away,
Left Jim and I alone,
We came here to sleep at the close of the day,
For we have no mamma or home.
We can't earn our bread, we're too little," she said,
"Jim's five years and I'm only seven,
There's no one to love us since papa is dead,
And our darling mamma's in Heaven."

"Maybe tonight they've no room there," she said,
"Two little ones to keep;"
Then placing her arm under little Jim's head,
She kissed him, and both fell saleep.
The sexton came early to ring the church bell,
He found them beneath the snow white;
The Angels made room for the orphans to dwell,
In Heaven with mamma, that night,

A great success. I receive an encore after each verse.—LOTTIE CLIPTON. It brought the house down, a sure winner.—PRANK DAGER. It is a Klondyke. I am compelled to repeat the chorus two and three times every night.—THOS. J. MADDEN. DAVE WATSON, A. H. The odor left by a highly scented toilet soap is not agreeable to most people of refined tastes.

A delicate perfume may be used after an Ivory Soap bath with much more pleasing effect.

Ivory Soap leaves only a comfortable feeling of perfect cleanliness.
